mother and sister, Mrs. M. J. Creighton and Miss Mable Creighton, of Portland.

Although many have their trees on Christmas eve, society turned out tremendously well to welcome the eminent and wonderful actor, Forbes-Robertson, in "The Passing of the Third Floor Back," at the Grand theatre last night.

THERE has been a deluge of charity affairs this season. Of course the numerous benefits for the Y. W. C. A. has added to the usual number of Christmas benefits. Heretofore, the benefit season was used to begin and to end the winter season, lengthening its interests and quietness, because, with these affairs there is always a delightful social side which very much lightens its labors.

This year, however, Christmas itself has called to the aid of the folks whose lot kind-hearted men and women seek to make happier and brighter.

Winter high tide of gaiety will soon be whirling the leisure world into all manner of entertainments, now that Christmas is over, and such a rush of affairs are planned for the new year that the remaining social season seems hardly adequate to cover the whirl of events.

The next large affair overshadowing all other formal social diversions during the holidays, will be the subscription dance Monday evening, and the Orange Club Ball which will take place in the armory Wednesday evening.

Dr. and Mrs. Harry Clay were the charming hosts for a Christmas breakfast this morning.

Covers were placed around an exquisitely decked table, the feature of which was a beautiful art basket of brilliantly colored blossoms and Christmas foliage.

Miss Winifred Byrd, who is enjoying a round of gayeties in New York City this winter, attended the musical last week given by the exclusive Mozart club in the magnificent ball room of the Hotel Astor.

Anato, the famous singer, appeared on the programme of this smart affair, which ended joyously in the ever fascinating diversion dancing.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude P. Slade and small son, William, of Silverton, are the holiday guests of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Roberts.

An attractive Christmas dinner was that presided over by Mr. and Mrs. William Burghardt, Jr.

Circling the artistically appointed table were their house guests, Mrs. M. M. Draper, Miss Draper, Miss Thelma Draper and Harry Draper, of Portland, and Mr. and Mrs. William Burghardt, Sr.

Mrs. J. V. Beach and son, Varnel, have just returned from a delightful trip to California.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Dancy have as their holiday guests, Mrs. Dancy's

SALEM had long felt the need of a Woman's club, and in 1901 a number of women met at the home of Mrs. C. P. Bishop to discuss the advisability of forming a club in this city.

The annual meeting of the club has only taken place twice in Salem, the first meeting in 1901 was at the home of Mrs. P. H. Raymond, who was then president.

The object as declared by the constitution of the club was "mutual improvement in literature, art, science, home and household economics and the vital interests of the day."

The local club became a part of the State Federation of Women's clubs at once.

The various departments of the Woman's club have been an important feature, as they have varied widely in their subjects, and have always secured an intrinsic interest in the subjects, which have proved most beneficial.

At present the club has two art classes in charge of Mrs. Alice H. Dodd, and a modern drama class under Mrs. Iva H. Kirk.

The securing of the excellent Carnegie library is among the many noteworthy accomplishments of the club and is a monument of their energy and labor.

Through the Woman's club the sale of red cross stamps in Salem has amounted to over one hundred and fifty dollars a year.

The scholarship loan fund has also received much substantial assistance from the club.

This year the women of the club have been co-operating with the social center work and a committee has been ever on duty to assist in charitable and other beneficent undertakings.

Within a very short while affiliation with the United States Federation of Women's Clubs will have been effected, and the Salem club is planning to send a delegate to the New York meeting in May.

The officers of the club at present are: President, Mrs. Marguerite P. Elliott; vice-president, Mrs. Emma Gallagher; recording secretary, Mrs. E. F. Carleton; financial secretary, Mrs. E. G. Bowersox; treasurer, Miss Edith Hazard; auditor, Mrs. Ina Keck; directors, Mrs. Charles Vetter, Mrs. Alice H. Dodd, Mrs. Elina Raymond.

Mrs. Elliott, who has been a most efficient and active club president, is now filling the pace of honor for the second term.

Concurrent with the desire to benefit and aid in many laudable enterprises, the Salem Woman's club will always be found engaged in a wide range of endeavors for the social betterment of the city.

Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Carleton were hosts for a charming dinner party, which included their house guests, President and Mrs. J. H. Ackerman, and Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Pittman, of Mountain, besides Mr. and Mrs. Roy Burton.

Later the party attended the performance of Forbes Robertson in "The Passing of the Third Floor Back" at the Grand theatre.

Dr. and Mrs. Harry Olinger have as their guests today, Dr. and Mrs. B. C. Olinger, of The Dalles.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Meredith and son John, and daughter Jannette, of North Yakima, arrived Friday to spend the Christmas time with Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Meredith.

Mrs. Fred Erixon and daughter Hazel, who have been sojourning in the south for several weeks returned Friday evening.

Mrs. Erixon and Miss Hazel were among the few Salem people who attended the Klein-courtnay nuptials in Los Angeles last Saturday.

Mrs. A. N. Bush is the Christmas guest of her mother, Mrs. John Hughes in Portland.

"I'm sorry but I haven't a thing to tell you this week. It's terribly quiet. There has been a drought of both formal and informal affairs for everyone has truly been most awfully busy with Christmas. However, a number of interesting guests and persons have this week's calendar from absolute lack of color."

Miss Laura Grant presented a number of her pupils in a delightful Christmas musical at her home Saturday afternoon.

The rooms were bright and cheery with Christmas blossoms and greenery intermingled with glistening tinsel. Most attractive and unique of the decorations was a large snow ball.

A feature of the charming programme was the appearance of Master Robert Bishop, who garbed as nippy old Jack Frost, served the guests with a pop corn ball made to represent snow balls.

This little programme, which was rich with things for the mothers and fathers to remember was as follows: Novelties by W. H. Tetric Kenneth Moores was host Thursday evening for a stag dinner at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Moores.

The guests included nine of Mr. Moores' Kappa Sigma fraternity brothers, who are home from Eugene for the Christmas holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Cox have as their Christmas and dinner guests today, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Gowler, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Cowles and son, and Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Flash, of Woodburn and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Cox.

The Christmas programme given at the Leslie Methodist church Thursday evening brought forth a large assemblage.

A profusion of evergreen and other Christmas foliage was used for decorations. A large Christmas tree also glittered with tinsel, and fancies.

The programme was as follows: Song, congregation. Prayer, pastor.

The success of this credible Christmas programme was largely due to the efforts of Mrs. Mason Bihon and Mrs. Giffa.

Mrs. Uicie Roberts and Miss Gertrude Roberts, of Portland, are visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Powers.

Surprising their many friends, Miss Myrtle Marie Hoffnuel and Dana Allen were married Friday evening at the home of the bride's brother, Edwin Hoffnuel.

The Rev. James Elvin, pastor of the First Congregational church, officiated. The ceremony was very simple and was performed in the presence of only a few relatives.

Mrs. Allen, who is a very charming girl, has a host of friends in Salem, as well as her husband.

Mr. Allen is a young attorney and was representative during the last legislature from Marion county.

The bride and groom will make their home in Salem.

A jolly event of the week was given Monday evening when Mr. and Mrs. Albert Fuestman invited a number of guests to celebrate their tenth wedding anniversary.

The hosts were showered with an array of useful aluminum ware.

The rooms were tastefully decorated with holiday greenery and colors.

It is seldom that such a diversity of interests envelops an evening as it did at this merry affair.

During the evening Rev. L. C. Zimmerman, who tied the nuptial knot gave an interesting little talk. Mrs. Carrie Chase sang, "The Star and Flower."

The Misses Loretta and Althea Dorks rendered a piano duet, "Miss Marcia Fuestman recited, "Santa and the mouse." Mr. William Sorrell delighted the guests with a reading. Miss Bernice Rice gave a piano solo and Rev. Dork closed the programme.

The invited guests were: Rev. and Mrs. L. C. Zimmerman, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Zimmerman, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Moody, Mr. and Mrs. Rice and daughter Bernice, and son, Arthur, Mr. and Mrs. Conley and grandson Garland Simpson, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Jewett, Mrs. Carrie Chase and daughter Martha, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. We particularly wish to thank you for the hearty support and patronage you have given us during the few short months we have been in Salem. The interest shown by you in our success has done much towards making our present quarters too small to accommodate our business and we take pleasure in advising that we will during the coming month increase our capacity by removing to the building formerly occupied by the Roth Grocery Company, at 416 State Street, where we will endeavor to merit your continued patronage by giving you the best values obtainable in anything you purchase from us.

In order that we may have as little as possible of our present stock to remove to our new location, we will, beginning December 27th, offer our entire stock at unusual bargains—dry goods, fancy goods, men's, women's and children's furnishing goods, household linen, notions, etc. Kindly watch the Salem papers for this announcement, which we know will prove of great interest to you, as we promise to save you considerable money on whatever you may purchase.

Again thanking you for the confidence you have reposed in us and assuring you that we will always endeavor to show that same has not been misplaced, we are,

Respectfully,

Oregon, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Giles and Mr. and Mrs. W. Sorrell.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Clapper was the scene of a happy gathering Thursday evening when friends congregated to celebrate the hosts' fortieth wedding anniversary.

Games afforded the evening entertainment with the prizes being awarded to Marcia Fuestmas and H. R. McWalter.

Following this diversion, the guests rendered a programme, which was as follows: Piano solo, Miss Maud Clapper.

Recitation, Garland Simpson.

Piano solo, Mrs. Albert Fuestman.

Recitation, Leona Clapper.

Solo, Mrs. J. J. Irvin.

Reading, Mrs. W. E. Deady.

Address, Rev. H. B. Dorks.

Later the Rev. Dorks presented the couple with a handsome leather chair, a gift from their friends.

Mrs. Irvin, Mrs. Deady and Miss Maud, daughters of the hosts, served a dainty lunch.

CHANGES IN PRECINCTS. The county court made two minor changes in the boundaries of the voting precincts at its regular meeting Saturday afternoon. Part of the precinct of Seallard was cut off and put into the precinct of West Hubbard in order that those living in this particular part of the precinct might vote in West Hubbard. The city of Stayton was made a separate precinct two years ago in order that the city might vote on the wet and dry question. This made the precincts of Stayton and East Stayton and some of the voters of East Stayton were obliged to pass through the town in order to vote in the other end of the precinct. In order that all might vote somewhere in the city of Stayton the precinct were rearranged so that the line of division

Margaret Mason Writes of Gotham Fads and Fashions

Ostrich feather fans still open and shut also but they aren't quite on the level either. Instead of forming the orthodox, symmetrical semi-circle of a fan, they begin stubby and low down on one side and work up gradually to their highest point on the opposite side.

Peacock feather fans are the most fancied of fantastic fans. They come either in the open and shut model or in the one stick effects. The latter are stunning and oriental on long, carved handles of gold inlaid ivory hand-carved, or jade.

Behind the many glowing eyes in the peacock's tail feathers, you can but expect a fair maid to make more eyes. Nor is it surprising that she should be much eyed.

Square fans that aren't on the square since they artfully reveal tiny mirrors and even vanity cases with powder puffs on their reverse sides, and lip sticks up their handles are bizarre and garishly ultra-modern with futuristic decorations and colorings.

Perhaps the most sareful of all is the one of silver gauze veiled in silver to simulate a spider's web with two crystal drops of dew glistening in its meshes.

Well wielded in the skillful hands of a 1916 debutante, it should never fail to make the fly catch of the season.

By Margaret Mason. (Written for the United Press.)

Let a dear little maid Take a dear little fan And the things that she can Do to any poor man Are a lot, I'm afraid.

New York, Dec. 25.—When the snow flies, little Miss Up-to-date takes her fan in hand even as she dons fur in the August sweater. She would as soon think of going to opera or ball fanless as manless. And what fans! Fine feathers certainly make fine fans and fans of a feather flock together this season as never before.

But they don't open and shut together as much as they used to, for the very newest form of feather fan is as old as the Queen of Sheba and consists of a gorgeous cluster of ostrich plumes poised on a single stick of sawed ivory, amber or tortoise shell.

The most vivid hues, ostrich plumes are used and bright purple, yellow, green or blue, they make an effective high light of color for any costume.

The white or black feather fans seem still to cling to the open and shut model with their sticks of tortoise shell or amber usually gold inlaid or gem encrusted.

extended through the town and all on one side is known as East Stayton and the other as Stayton precinct.—Stayton Standard.
